

ARCH TEAM MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

Strong projects begin with strong leadership, and ARCH is proud to highlight two team members who help bring that to life every day. Victor Ceron and Art Vega each bring decades of experience leading complex construction, capital improvement, and facilities initiatives, strengthening ARCH's project management expertise across a wide range of projects. As Vice President of Project Management, Victor leads large-scale development and renovation programs with a unique blend of technical expertise, strategic planning, and people-focused leadership. He is known for navigating complex projects with clarity, while fostering strong collaboration across teams. His work reflects a belief that successful projects are built not only on quality execution, but on strong relationships. As Facilities Project Manager, Art is recognized for his collaborative approach to coordinating multidisciplinary teams, overseeing capital projects, and guiding work from planning through completion. His extensive experience in senior living and hospitality provides valuable insight into creating environments that support both operational excellence and resident experience. ARCH values having Art and Victor on board and we look forward to the impact they'll make across our projects and partnerships.

THE VILLAGE AT PROVIDENCE POINT CONSTRUCTION PROGRESS

The community under construction will be a life plan community consisting of residential independent living apartments and cottage-style housing, as well as assisted living and memory care suites. The first phase of the project consists of 246 independent living accommodations made up of apartments and duplex cottages. The balance of phase one includes a separate healthcare center, consisting of 16 assisted living and memory support suites, and 16 skilled nursing beds. National Lutheran Communities & Services celebrated a groundbreaking ceremony for The Village at Providence Point last October. Construction began on site in early 2026 and continues to progress on schedule toward planned completion. Vertical construction is scheduled to begin next week, during the week of July 6th, and additionally, work is underway to modify and connect Spa Road to Skippers Lane. Construction will continue around the clock to expedite work on the public roadway and help improve connectivity and access.
